The prompt warnings of Judge Burke prevented the people from witnessing what night have been two nasty looking races. In the first race the betting against Character lengthened more than it should have on the public form shown by that horse. Mr. Burke spoke to Rueston and the latter, by vigorous riding, landed Character a winner. Ofalece, the lavorite, was beaten by poor riding. In this same race 6. McLaughilla, the rider of Architect, which fluished third, was detected by Mr. Carr in an attempt to drop a blanket pad on the track. These pads weigh three pounds, and the jockey generally weighs in with them. Architect, therefore, carried three pounds overweight, and according to the strict rule be should have been disqualified. Mr. Burke, however, said that such a ruiling would be an injustice to the public who beton the horse. He had one such case before, and deckied that way, thereby making a precedent. The boy, however, will be punished. Cantor's World's Fair bill reported in Assembly, Saxton's concurrent resolution for Constitu-tional Amendment giving course power to decide contested election cases made special order for hounday night in the Schate. Senator Abearn introduced Weed's Assembly bill for bridges across East River above Blackwell's Island. The Sonate passed McCarty's bill exempting Brooklyn and Bufalo from the operation of the Canter set requiring that railway frauchises shall be sold to the highest budger.

In the second race the betting against billon J rese to an alarming degree. The owner, a Mr. Moere, became irightened and informed the Judge. The latter warned kuntze, and the public got a ride that was extremely vigorous and satisfying. Dillon J. won naudily. Favorites won a majority of the races, and the public went home well satisfied.
